Is music research a more scientific or a more artistic activity? Starting from his personal experience as a "mathmusical" researcher, Dr. Andreatta will give some suggestions for a good balance between scientific investigation in music theory, analysis and composition, and artistic practice. This talk will alternate a traditional presentation format and live performances of musical compositions.